ON THE WINGS OF THE WIND

New Record For Sustained Flight Made at Rheims.

FRENCHMAN'S GREAT EXPLOIT

Paulhan's Airship Keeps in the Air For Two Hours, Fifty-Three Minutes, Twenty-Four Seconds, Beating Wilbur Wright's Time and Creating the Greatest Sensation on the Aviation Field—This Performance Further Establishes Future of Flying Machines.

Rheims, Aug. 26.—When Paulhan, the plucky French aviator, broke the world's record in a wonderful flight of 2 hours, 53 minutes and 24 seconds. another sensational exploit was added to the marvels of aviation week. During twenty minutes of the time Paulhan had a heavy rain and wind storm to contend against. The previous official record for time in the air was made by Wilbur Wright at Lemans, Dec. 31, 2 hours, 20 minutes and 23 1-5 seconds. The unofficial record was 2 hours, 27 minutes and 15 seconds, made by Sommer at Marmelons. Paulhan's new record for distance was about 134 kilometers, or 83 miles. He made thirteen circuits of the course, and the wind squall passed as he was coming down the home stretch for the last time. Simultaneously the dirigible, Colonel Renard, appeared to the westward, plowing its way majestically through the smoke of the city of Rheims.

When Paulhan finally came down it was because the fifty-six litres of essence which he carried in his tank was exhausted. He said immediately after he landed that both the machine and the self-cooling motor had stood up perfectly and that he could have continued indefinitely if the tank had been replenished. No one who witnessed the marvelously impressive flight now entertains the slightest doubt that aerial navigation with heavier-than-air machines has a glorious future.

Starting in a 12-knot breeze shortly before 4 o'clock with the avowed intention of completing the fifty kilometres before 5 o'clock, to bar his less venturesome rivals who desired to await calmer air, Paulhan not only accomplished his original purpose, but continued to circle the vast plain until his tank was literally empty. Thirteen times he made the circuit. Even when a shower accompanied by a high wind suddenly broke, the intrepid pilot did not falter. He battled in the teeth of the rain and wind for ten minutes up one length of the course, and the thrilled spectators watched the struggle against the elements in spellbound admiration. When he succeeded in rounding the turn the excitement and enthusiasm broke into a frenzied roar.

Going down on the wings of the wind, Paulhan made up for the time lost in fighting against it. Fortunately the storm was of brief duration. As the time approached when it was evident that he would beat the Wright record, the excitement was intense and the crowds rushed out, shouting words of encouragement. At one moment there was an enchanting picture as the aeroplane floated in the limpid blue beneath a beautiful rainbow while the approaching dirigible, Colonel Renard, was silhoutted against the black clouds banked up on the horizon.

As Paulhan in turn broke the time and distance records, the jubilation of the spectators was beyond description. The Americans joined the French and other foreigners in paying tribute to the courage of the daring aviator.

Exhibition flights meanwhile were being given by Sommer, LeBlanc, Latham, Rougier, Tissandier, Bleriot, Gobron and Bunau-Varilla, and although they offered a wonderfully impressive sight as they wheeled and circled in the gathering dusk, they were almost forgotten in the intensity of interest as to how far Paulhan would go.

Henri Fournier, a leading French aviator, was seriously injured when his Voisin biplane was smashed. The machine was going at great speed when one of the wires supporting the planes snapped. Fournier made a desperate effort to right the machine, but the frail construction, minus its chief support, collapsed and was broken beyond possibility of repair. Fournier was so seriously injured he may die.

"RED SHIRTS" MEET

South Carolina Revives Memories of Reconstruction Days.

Anderson, S. C., Aug. 26.—At a reunion here of the "Red Shirt" men who in 1876 wrested the political machinery of the state from the negroes and carpet baggers, United States Senator Tillman declared that President Taft is the "tool of a great political machine" and that the president's appointment of census enumerators in the south is but a furtherance of his efforts to break the "solid south."

Senator Tillman warned the people of the state against compulsory education, saying that it would prepare the negroes for the ballot and might, in time, result in their controlling elections in South Carolina.

The reunion was featured by a parade in which several thousand members of the "Red Shirt" brigades participated, mounted and wearing red shirts. Many women took part in the parade.

In addition to the juggling turn he will put on a comic sketch. "The Good Hearted Policeman," a dramatic film and "The Troublesome Tempest," a comic film are on the program tonight. Leon Maxey will sing an illustrated song entitled "I Love But You Dear and Only You."

As a novelty and added attraction at the Palace tonight the management has provided talking pictures. The great film "East Lynn" will be shown and a complete change of program will be seen at this theater.

THIS AND THAT

There were a lot of fair fairies' fair dresses that were "just ruined" by that unannounced downpour last night.

And for the matter of that the pressing establishment did a fair business today the result of the rain last night.

Really it would be interesting to know just how early some of the farmers got up this morning. One man who did not get here until almost seven o'clock said he overslept. He had to drive sixteen miles and do an hour's work before he started.

Two new grandchildren all in one hour are enough to make most any man happy.

The farmers came in today in wagons and seven passenger touring cars. In ten years the wagon passengers will come in autos and the chauffeurs in air ships.

All the way from Chicago to attend the Rush county fair is coming some. About 300 miles anyway.

Oh well! There won't be any fair to read about or talk about next week.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

HORSE HOME SICK.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

"Silver Lock," the fast animal that has won first place in five and second place in one race during the present season, and which was brought here Sunday from Erlanger, Ky., and taken to the fair grounds, became home sick Tuesday morning and ran away.

The animal had been tied in a stall at the fair grounds, while one of the "swipes" went into another part of the grounds after a bale of straw. While he was gone "Silver Lock" slipped the halter, went out of the stall, ran through the back gate and started for home, two miles southwest of the city, and three and one-half miles from the fair grounds. On arriving there the owner of the animal put him in a stall for an hour or two and then returned him to the fair grounds.

COURT HOUSE CROOKED.

(Greenfield Tribune.)

Is the court house tower going to fall or is it leaning to the west too far? This is the question which several people are asking now. Two years ago the tower was struck by lightning and at the time cracks on the east side of the tower could be noticed by using a telescope. Since then people who have been noticing the tower, claim the cracks are widening, as now the cracks can easily be seen by the naked eye. The cracks can be seen over the figure eleven on the clock, under the figure five and under the figures seven and eight.

If the tower is leaning to the west, the extra weight of the clock would certainly throw it to the west. Some clock makers have said that because of the tower not being level has kept the clock from running correctly and sometimes from running at all, as last Monday night the clock stopped at 12:30.

FORM ONE MORE HABIT

YOU HAVE probably not yet formed enough "habits." It is likely that you would find the "ad-answering habit" a dividend paying one—and one that would never lure you far away from the best thrift-creed ever devised.

A habit is usually formed through yielding to natural inclination. The ad-answering habit will have to be cultivated—perhaps against present inclination, and through an effort of will.

You are not in the habit of saying "impossible" are you?

AIRSHIP LANDS PEOPLE CHEER

Nassr's Second Flight a Success in Every Way and Aeronaut is Well Pleased.

HE GOES AT NOON ON FRIDAY.

Trip Tomorrow Will be Earlier Because of Long Trip For Next Week.

As the airship came gracefully down yesterday afternoon, after a most successful flight over the fair ground, a hearty cheer went up from all parts of the grounds for Tony Nassr, the aeronaut.

The second flight was made without a hitch and even the conservative Nassr was perceptibly pleased with his success. Everything was running as well as it could be, and the machine started easily and lightly toward the skies about five o'clock. Nassr circled around over the track, went south over the fair ground and then east and circled back, made a figure eight and came down after a five minutes flight, within twenty feet of where he started up. The machine did not reach a hight greater than two hundred feet as Nassr prefers to stay lower in order that the spectators may see him operate the craft.

Friday Mr. Nassr expects to make a flight about noon in order to allow him to pack and get away Friday night. He has a long jump, going from here to Missouri for an exhibition next week.

PICTURE MAN IS ARRESTED HERE

Proprietor of Western Feared he Would Not Pay His Two Weeks' Board.

IS SETTLED BEFORE SQUIRE

Emett Roberts, proprietor of the Western hotel, caused the arrest of one of his boarders last night because he feared Mr. Boarder would leave without due announcement and settlement. Mr. Boarder gives his name as Van Hook and his address as Shelbyville. Van Hook has been at the Western two weeks while he has been taking orders for enlarging pictures. He delivered his pictures yesterday, but said nothing about paying his board. Mr. Roberts became suspicious and ordered him arrested. The case came up before Squire Kratzer this morning and Van Hook settled, the amount being $8.

It is quite likely that the international commission will recommend the construction of a dam across the Niagara river at Buffalo to raise the level of Lake Erie. The work will cost $5,000,000.

most interesting, Martin C. finally winning out by taking the third heat. In this heat Bailey, who was driving Martin C made a hard drive and took the lead which he kept during the whole mile. Arleigh O broke several times and was unable to make up the distance lost.

The summary of the races follow:

2:35 Trot—Purse $250.

Arleigh O (Weeks)	1	1	2	1
Martin C (Bailey)	4	3	1	3

Time: 2:26¼, 2:25¼, 2:29¼, 2:27¼.

2:25 Pace—Purse $250.

Baron Russell (Russell)	2	3	3
Ray Russell (Gaston)	3	5	6
Frances Sexton (Maple)	5	4	4
Celia W (Hernly)	4	6	5

Time: 2:22¼, 2:17¼, 2:19¼.

Frank Jones, who is officiating as starter of the races this year, is making his maiden attempt in that capacity and is getting away good. Although he has acted in that position at the matinee races on Saturday, he has never officiated at any of the fairs. The horsemen are high in their praise of him and say that he is fair in all of his decisions.

The I. & C. handled thousands of people today without an accident and without any inconvenience to any of the passengers. They ran several shuttle trains all day long and took care of the immense crowds with great speed and care.

Nothing was ever more kindly received than the drenching rain which came down in torrents last night about ten o'clock. The rain was not only a blessing for those who wished to attend the fair today, but alsa was a great help to the farmers who were beginning to feel the need of a rain for their crops. The downpour settled the dust on the east pike so that it was much more agreeable for people who wished to go to the fair ground in vehicles today.

While riding on the human roulette Will Florea, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Will Bliss, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon. A slight gash was cut in his lip.

It was remarkable how well the I. & C. handled the large crowds today. Oscar Lively, trainmaster, has personal charge of the work and directed the trains from the platform at the station here. He has a telephone on the platform and always knows what to do and when to do it. The smaller towns along the line probably got better service today than ever before. When an unusually large crowd would arrive at the station, the agent would telephone Mr. Lively and a special car would be rushed to that station to bring in the crowd. This was done several times this morning.

One of the most interesting characters on the fair ground is M. H. Nassr, father of the aeronaut. Mr. Nassr is a Syrian and takes the deepest interest in his son's work. Incidentally it might be said that he is a wealthy wholesale grocer in Toledo.

COULD NOT RESIST THE TEMPTATION

HEARD CALL OF FIRST LOVE

Nothing attracts like the county fair. It is hard for people, who formerly lived here and have wandered away from their first love to resist the temptation to come back for the fair. This is best illustrated by two Rushville boys who are employed in Chicago and determined they would miss the fair this year. But after they had read the Daily Republican about the prospects for the annual exhibit they could not resist the call and came today. Charley Wilson, who has been employed in a drug store for the past few years in Chicago and Cecil Clark, who has been working in the advertising department of the Chicago Record-Herald this summer, arrived this morning and are now listed among the fair visitors.

MEN SCRAMBLE FOR THEIR DRINKS

Two Remaining Saloons do Rushing Business—Four and Five Deep Along Bars.

THEY BEG TO BE WAITED ON

The people that did the real land office business in this city today were the only two saloons left in the city. At both places, James A. Thompson's and George Daniels' the bars which run the full length of the rooms were crowded and men were standing four and five deep actually begging to be waited on. The extra bartenders employed helped a lot in handling the crowds but at that there were several thirsty ones who got a lot thirstier before they got a drink.

"There always have been empties here when they were wanted until lately. There's been no head or tail to anything on this division for six months."

"I'm sorry that you have that impression."

"That impression is very general," declared the stockman, with an oath, "and if you keep on discharging the only men on this division that are competent to handle a break like this, it is likely to continue!"

"Just a moment!" McCloud's finger rose pointedly. "My failure to please you in caring for your stock in an emergency may be properly a matter for comment; your opinion as to the way I am running this division is, of course, your own; but don't attempt to criticise the retention or discharge of any man on my pay roll!"

Dunning strode toward him. "I'm a shipper on this line; when it suits me to criticise you or your methods, or anybody else's, I expect to do so," he retorted in high tones.

"But you cannot tell me how to run my business!" thundered McCloud, leaning over the table in front of him

As the two men glared at each other Rooney Lee opened the door. His surprise at the situation amounted to consternation. He shuffled to the corner of the room, and while McCloud and Dunning engaged hotly again, Rooney, from the corner, threw a shot of his own into the quarrel. "On time!" he roared.

The angry men turned. "What's on time?" asked McCloud, curtly.

"Number One; she's in and changing engines. I told them you were going west," declared Rooney in so deep tones that his fiction would never have been suspected.

Dunning, to emphasize, without a further word, his disgust for the situation and his contempt for the management, tore into scraps the pass that had been given him, threw the scraps on the floor, took a cigar from his pocket and lighted it; insolence could do no more.

McCloud looked over at the dispatcher. "No, I am not going west, Rooney. But if you will be good enough to stay here and find out from this man just how this railroad ought to be run, I will go to bed. He can tell you; the microbe seems to be working in his mind right now," said McCloud, slamming down the roll-top of his desk. And with Lance Dunning glaring at him, somewhat speechless, he put on his hat and walked out of the room.

It was but one of many disagreeable incidents due to the loss of the bridge. Complications arising from the tie-up followed him at every turn. It seemed as if he could not get away from trouble following trouble. After 40 hours further of toil, relieved by four hours of sleep, McCloud found himself, rather dead than alive, back at Medicine Bend and in the little dining room at Marion's. Coming in at the cottage door on Fort street, he dropped into a chair. The cottage rooms were empty. He heard Marion's voice in the front shop; she was engaged with a customer. Putting his head on the table to wait a moment, nature asserted itself and McCloud fell asleep. He woke hearing a voice that he had heard in dreams. Perhaps no other voice could have wakened him, for he slept for a few minutes a death-like sleep. At all events, Dicksie Dunning was in the front room and McCloud heard her. She was talking with Marion about the burning of Smoky Creek bridge.

"Every one is talking about it yet," Dicksie was saying. "If I had lost my best friend I couldn't have felt worse; you know, my father built it. I rode over there the day of the fire, and down into the creek, so I could look up where it stood. I never realized before how high and how long it was; and when I remembered how proud father always was of his work there—Cousin Lance has often told me—I sat down right on the ground and cried. How times have changed in railroading, haven't they? Mr. Sinclair was over just the other night, and he said if they kept using this new coal in the engines they would burn up everything on the division. Do you know, I have been waiting in town three or four hours now for Cousin Lance? I feel almost like a tramp. He is coming from the west with the stock train. It was due here hours ago, but they never seem to know when anything is to get here the way things are run on the railroad now. I want to give Cousin Lance some mail before he goes through."

"The passenger trains crossed the creek over the switchbacks hours ago, and they say the emergency grades are first-rate," said Marion Sinclair, on the defensive. "The stock trains must have followed right along. Your cousin is sure to be here pretty soon. Probably Mr. McCloud will know which train he is on, and Mr. Lee telephoned that Mr. McCloud would be over here at three o'clock for his dinner. He ought to be here now."

"Oh, dear, then I must go!"

"But he can probably tell you just when your cousin will be in."

"I wouldn't meet him for worlds!"

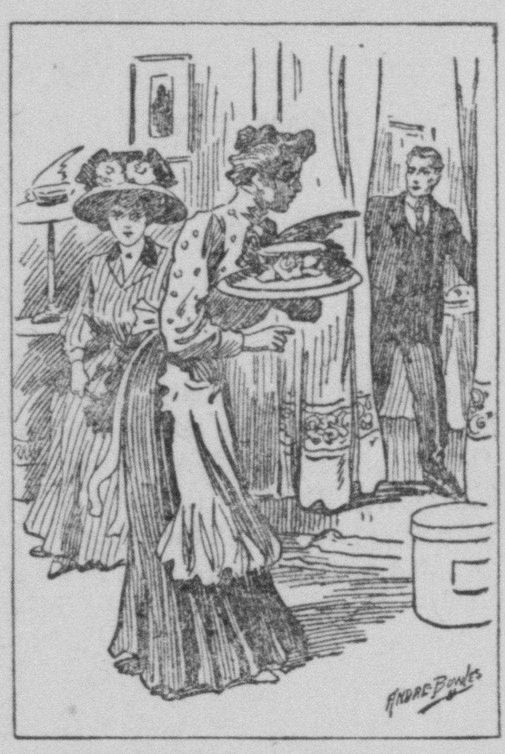
"You wouldn't? Why, Mr. McCloud is delightful."

"Oh, not for worlds, Marion! You know he is discharging all the best of the older men, the men that have made the road everything it is, and of course we can't help sympathizing with them over our way. For my part, I think it is terrible, after a man has given all of his life to building up a railroad, that he should be thrown out to starve in that way by new managers, Marion."

McCloud felt himself shrinking within his weary clothes. Resentment seemed to have died. He felt too exhausted to undertake controversy, even if it were to be thought of, and it was not.

Nothing further was needed to complete his humiliation. He picked up his hat and with the thought of getting out as quietly as he had come in. In rising he swept a tumbler at his elbow from the table. The glass broke on the floor, and Marion exclaimed: "What is that?" and started for the dining room.

It was too late to get away. McCloud stepped to the portieres of the trimming room door and pushed them aside. Marion stood with a hat in her hand, and Dicksie, sitting at the table, was looking directly at the intruder as he appeared in the doorway. She saw in him her pleasant acquaintance of the wreck at Smoky Creek, whose name she had not learned. In her surprise, she rose to her feet, and Marion spoke quickly: "Oh, Mr. McCloud, is it you? I did not hear you come in."



"Oh, Mr. McCloud, Is It You?"

Dicksie's face, which had lighted, became a spectacle of confusion after she heard the name. McCloud, conscious of the awkwardness of his position and the disorder of his garb, said the worst thing at once: "I fear I am inadvertently overhearing your conversation."

He looked at Dicksie as he spoke, chiefly because he could not help it, and this made matters hopeless.

She flushed more deeply. "I cannot conceive why our conversation should invite a listener."

Her words did not, of course, help to steady him. "I tried to get away," he stammered, "when I realized I was a part of it."

"In any event," she exclaimed, hastily, "if you are Mr. McCloud I think it unpardonable to do anything like that!"

"I am Mr. McCloud, though I should rather be anybody else; and I am sorry that I was unable to help hearing what was said; I—"

"Marion, will you be kind enough to give me my gloves?" said Dicksie, holding out her hand.

Marion, having tried once or twice to intervene, stood between the firing-lines in helpless amazement. Her exclamations were lost; the two before her gave no heed to ordinary intervention.

McClouud flushed at being cut off, but he bowed. "Of course," he said, "if you will listen to no explanation I can only withdraw."

He went back, dinnerless, to work all night; but the switchbacks were doing capitally, and all night long trains were rolling through Medicine Bend from the west in an endless string. In the morning the yard was nearly cleared of west-bound tonnage. Moreover, the mail in the morning brought compensation. A letter came from Glover telling him not to worry himself to death over the tie-up, and one came from Bucks telling him to make ready for the building of the Crawling Stone line.

McCloud told Rooney Lee that if anybody asked for him to report him dead, and going to bed slept 24 hours.

CHAPTER IX.

Sweeping Orders.

The burning of Smoky Creek bridge was hardly off the minds of the mountain men when a disaster of a different sort befell the division. In the Rat valley east of Sleepy Cat the main line springs between two ranges of hills with a dip and a long supported grade in each direction. At the point of the dip there is a switch from which a spur runs to a granite quarry. The track for two miles is straight and the switch-target and lights are seen easily from either direction save at one particular moment of the day—a moment which is in the valley neither quite day nor quite night.. Down this grade, a few weeks after the Smoky Creek fire, came a double-headed stock train from the Short Line with 40 cars of steers. The switch stood open; this much was afterward abundantly proved. The train came down the grade very fast to gain speed for the hill ahead of it. The head engineman, too late, saw the open target. He applied the emergency air, threw his engine over, and whistled the alarm. The mightiest efforts of a dozen engines would have been powerless to check the heavy train. On the quarry track stood three flat cars loaded with granite blocks for the abutment of the new Smoky Creek bridge. On a sanded track, rolling at 30 miles an hour and screaming in the clutches of the burning brakes, the heavy engines struck the switch like an avalanche, reared upon the granite-laden flats, and with 40 loads of cattle plunged into the canyon below; not a car remained on the rails. The head brakeman, riding in the second cab, was instantly killed, and the engine crews, who jumped, were badly hurt.

The whole operating department of the road was stirred. What made the affair more dreadful was that it had occurred on the time of Number Six, the east-bound passenger train, held that morning at Sleepy Cat by an engine failure. Glover came to look into the matter. The testimony of all tended to one conclusion—that the quarry switch had been thrown at some time between 4:30 and 5 o'clock that morning. Inferences were many: Tramps during the early summer had been unusually troublesome and many of them had been rigorously handled by trainmen; robbery might have been a motive, as the express cars on train Number Six carried heavy specie shipments from the coast.

A third and more exciting event soon put the quarry wreck into the background. Ten days afterward an east-bound passenger train was flagged in the night at Sugar Buttes, 12 miles west of Sleepy Cat. When the heavy train slowed up, two men boarded the engine and with pistols compelled the engineman to cut off the express cars and pull them to the water-tank a mile east of the station. Three men there in waiting forced the express car, blew open the safe, and the gang rode away half an hour later loaded with gold coin and currency.

Had a stick of dynamite been exploded under the Wickiup there could not have been more excitement at Medicine Bend. Within three hours after the news reached the town a posse under Sheriff Van Horn, with a car load of horseflesh and 14 guns, was started for Sugar Buttes. The trail led north and the pursuers rode until nearly nightfall. They crossed Dutch flat and rode single file into a wooded canyon, where they came upon traces of a camp-fire. Van Horn, leading, jumped from his horse and thrust his hand into the ashes; they were still warm, and he shouted to his men to ride up. As he called out, a riflecracked from the box-elder trees ahead of him. The sheriff fell, shot through the head, and a deputy springing from his saddle to pick him up was shot in precisely the same way; the posse, thrown into a panic, did not fire a single shot, and for an hour dared not ride back for the bodies. After dark they got the two dead men and at midnight rode with them into Sleepy Cat.

When the news reached McCloud he was talking with Bucks over the wires. Bucks had got into headquarters at the river late that night, and was getting details from McCloud of the Sugar Buttes robbery when the superintendent sent him the news of the killing of Van Horn and the deputy. In the answer that Bucks sent came a name new to the wires of the mountain division and rarely seen even in special correspondence, but Hughie Morrison, who took the message, never forgot that name. Hughie handed the message to McCloud and stood by while the superintendent read:

> Whispering Smith is due in Cheyenne to-morrow. Meet him at the Wickiup Sunday morning; he has full authority. I have told him to get these fellows, if it takes all the money in the treasury, and not to stop till he cleans them out of the Rocky Mountains. J. S. B.

Wonderful Doings at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Creating Much Excitement in That Section.

There is much excitement at Ft. Wayne these days over a new discovery that is curing scores of people who have suffered for years with some chronic trouble. Many who had lost hope of ever seeing another well day have recovered health in a short while, and hundreds of people are crowding into that city from all of the surrounding country to get some of the health-promoting juice. Many are telling of wonderful cures it has made. It seems that the discovery is principally composed of roots; therefore it is called Root Juice. An old lady who had suffered for twenty years with rheumatism and was unable to walk, after taking the juice a short while was restored to perfect health and can now get around as well as any one of her age. Nearly everyone who suffers with stomach, liver and kidney troubles, say that a few doses of the medicine relieves them of every painful symptom. After taking it a few weeks they say they are positively cured. Numbers of people are writing to the scientist from all parts of the country and inviting him to appoint a local druggist to demonstrate the great health promoting Juice in their town.

No More Gray Hair.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are beginnig to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulpher. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

SPANISH ARMY HAS BEGUN ITS ADVANCE

War Against the Moors to Be Finally Pushed.

Melilla, Aug. 26.—As it has been found impossible to cut the Marchica canal under four months, expert opinion has been justified. General Marina, commander of the Spanish forces, is not wasting time in vain regrets, and has decided to commence the advance. The men appear glad that the long suspense is ended, and that the war has really begun. They display excellent spirits, and are greatly encouraged by the presence among them of the Duke of Saragossa and the Marquis of Vallecerrato, both of whom are serving as privates and are treated in every respect like the men. The Marquis of Vallecerrato traveled direct from Cambridge university to volunteer.

The concentration of the whole army will occupy several days, and it is still uncertain when General Marina will start for the front. The commissariat is in good shape, but the water supply is a serious problem. Two ships for condensing water are hourly expected.

One effect of the failure to construct the canal will be to limit the amount of artillery accompanying the army, especially quick-firers, as it is impossible with the existing means of communication to provide them with sufficient ammunition.

Two Caught by Train.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 26.—Two men, supposed to be Webster Mitchell and James G. Mitchell, brothers, of Eckerty, Ind., were struck by a Southern passenger train at Knight Crossing, west of here, and ground to pieces. The only means of identification was

NEW PACE SET FOR TROTTING HORSES

Cleveland, Aug. 26.—At the Randall racetack late yesterday, in a marvelous exhibition of speed, Hamburg Belle, the Kentucky mare, not only defeated Uhlan, the New England gelding, in two straight heats, in their first trotting match, but lowered her own record and broke two world's records.

Hamburg Belle cut a second and a half from her own best previous mark of 2:02¾. Then she broke the world's trotting race record by going the first heat in 2:01¼. This was followed with a second record-smashing exhibition, when she went the second heat in 2:01¾, thus establishing an average of 2:01½ for two heats.

Uhlan was defeated only by a fraction of a second in the first heat. In the second he led to the half mile post, where he broke.

The former record of 2:03¼ was held by Cresceus. The stallion made the record in a match race with The Abbott at Brighton Beach in August, 1901. Sweet Marie formerly held the record for the fastest two heats trotted, having made miles in 2:04¾ and 2:03¾ at Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 12, 1906. Immediately after the first heat Hamburg Belle was sold to H. M. Hanna of this city for $50,000, by Edward and Joseph Madden, owners of the mare, and sons of John E. Madden.

MYSTERIOUS INFORMATION

PROVED TO BE ALL A HOAX

New York Was Startled by a Report That Alfred G. Vanderbilt Had Been Shot at a Hotel—How the Fake Got Started Is What the Coroner Is Now Seeking to Find Out, as He Was the One Most Imposed Upon—Vanderbilt Treated Sensational Report as a Joke.

New York, Aug. 26.—Shortly after midnight New York was startled by a report which originated from some unknown source and was communicated to the coroner's office, that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt had been shot at the Grand Union hotel at Forty-second street and Park avenue. The coroner's clerk who received the mysterious information by 'phone, notified Coroner Shrady, who immediately started for Bellevue hospital, where it was understood Mr. Vanderbilt had been taken. Before going, however, the coroner telephoned Bellevue and learned that Mr. Vanderbilt was not there. Subsequent inquiry at the Grand Union hotel showed that there had been no shooting there.

ALFRED GWYNNE VANDERBILT.

The clerk at the hotel said the first intimation he had of any shooting came through an inquiry from a New York morning newspaper. This was followed quickly by inquiries from nearly every other newspaper in the city, which in the meantime had received the report.

The coroner quickly found that he had been duped, and as the Grand Union hotel appeared quiet and normal when the reporters arrived, it was seen there had been a mistake. Clinching this fact came a laconic telephone message from Mr. Vanderbilt himself, or at least one who said he was Mr. Vanderbilt, who called up the coroner's office and casually remarked, "I understand I have been shot." He was told such a report was in circulation and that the coroner was trying to learn where it originated. Mr. Vanderbilt treated the whole matter as a joke.

The man who called the coroner's office and said he was Mr. Vanderbilt was talking at the time from the New York club in West Fortieth street, of which Mr. Vanderbilt is a member. About the only mystery remaining to be cleared up now is why the rumor started and by whom.

WIFE BRINGS SUITS

Bedford, Ind., Aug. 26.—Suit has been filed in the Lawrence circuit court by Mrs. Pearle Creamer against Marshall Beasley, a saloon man of that town, and the American Surety company of New York, his security, in the sum of $2,000. The plaintiff alleges that Beasley, while running a saloon in Mitchell in April last, with other saloon keepers sold her husband liquor, causing him to become very much intoxicated and that while in that condition he staggered into a passing train, causing him to be badly paralyzed and wounded, and has since been disabled from work to support his family.

LAWYERS IN A WARM CONTEST OVER BABY

Little Marian Bleakley Subject of Bitter Fight.

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—To help his wife in her fight for possession of her foster child, little Marian Bleakley, the kidnapped "incubator baby," James Barclay of Buffalo, N. Y., husband of Mrs. Stella Barclay, has arrived here.

He went immediately to the police station, where his wife is awaiting the outcome of the tangled mass of circumstances arising from her kidnapping of the child in Topeka last Sunday. Their greeting was quiet. There were no tears or embraces.

"I am so glad you have come," said Mrs. Barclay. "I can endure anything now." Barclay would make no statement other than to say that he would see the case through to the finish.

Little Marian will not know until Sept. 7 to whom she legally belongs. The five-year-old child who has been kidnapped twice in her short life, has been ordered placed in the custody of the clerk of the juvenile court until that time, when Judge Porterfield will endeavor to decide whether she shall remain with her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Bleakley of Topeka or Mrs. Barclay.

Mrs. Barclay and Detective James Gentry of Kansas City will have until Aug. 30 to prepare arguments in their habeas corpus case, when they hope to avoid being returned to Topeka for trial as kidnappers.

Governor Hadley will get into the unusual case, too. Tomorrow he will give Mrs. Barclay and Gentry a rehearing in the Kansas extradition proceedings. If he decides to recall the requisition papers issued last Sunday, the self-confessed kidnappers will go free, but the baby still will be under the court's orders.

Fourteen prominent lawyers struggled in court for the baby. The arguments were heated and involved many intricate law points. But through it all the child played with her mother's handbag and laughed at the earnest attitude of the funny men before the bar of justice, in a contest in which her own small person was the prize at stake.

Mrs. Barclay and Gentry are going to try to get bond. They are not pleased at the prospect of staying in jail until Aug. 30.

They will have their trial tomorrow.

Marion, Ind., Aug. 26.—Michael Hartney, aged sixty-nine years, and a member of the national soldiers' home, was run down and killed by an Indiana Union Traction interurban car. Employes of the traction company say that Hartney stumbled on to the track only a few feet in front of the car, and it was impossible to stop before running over the old man.

TO BRING OUT THE COY CASH

The President Will Urge a Postal Savings Bank.

TO KEEP PLATFORM PROMISE

Mr. Taft Has Indicated That One Point to Be Strongly Urged in His Forthcoming Message to Congress Will Be the Establishment of a Postal Savings Bank System—He Will Ask That Platform Declaration in That Regard Be Fulfilled as Speedily as Possible.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 26.—In talks with callers President Taft has indicated that in his message to congress next December he will strongly urge the early establishment of a postal savings bank system. The president realizes that there is strong opposition to such legislation at this time, and while he does not propose to rush congress on too many matters at once, he will ask that the platform declaration of the Republican party in favor of postal banks be fulfilled as speedily as possible.

Influential members of both the senate and house are urging that the matter be left over until the monetary commission has made its report and ensuing financial legislation has been disposed of. It has even been said that the relation between the subjects to be dealt with by the monetary commission and the postal banks is so close that the two should be handled together.

President Taft believes that several hundreds of millions would be placed at the disposal of the government through postal savings banks. It is sugested that this money might well be employed in taking up the $600,000,000 or $700,000,000 of government 2 per cent bonds which are outstanding and which have given much concern to the treasury department officials. Already the 2 per cent bonds are selling below par, and there is fear of further depreciation in view of the 3 per cent issues which have been authorized and which may soon be placed on the market. The money which national banks would draw, the president believes, is that which is sent abroad each year by foreigners who insist that the government's guarantee shall be back of any bank in which they place their hard-earned savings, and that which is secreted in stockings and mattresses and not sent to any bank at all. The president believes that the postal banks would appeal only to those timid persons who are afraid to trust the ordinary banks and who would rather get the 2 per cent or less interest which the government would give, than to place the money in the regular savings banks, where it would draw from 3 to 4 per cent interest each year.

By placing the interest to be allowed by the postal banks at less than 2 per cent, Mr. Taft is convinced that no harm would be done to the ordinary banks of commerce, for discriminating persons who now place their money in these banks and are appreciative of what these banks are doing for the community would not withdraw money drawing a high rate and place it under government care at half the interest offered by the ordinary savings banks.

The money obtained through postal banks, the president and several of his closest advisers believe, would offer a most happy solution of the 2 per cent bond problem. Secretary Mayer of the navy, and former postmaster general, is strongly in favor of postal banks. He has given much thought and study to the subject and is convinced of its importance to the government. Idle funds would be placed at the disposal of the government at an exceedingly low rate of interest. The government's guarantee, it is believed, would dam the steady flow of gold across the Atlantic to foreign banks under government control.

OATS THRESHING NEARING THE END

YIELD IS ABOUT 35 BUSHELS

Oats threshing is pretty generally completed throughout the county and already a fair estimate of the yield can be made, conservative figures putting it at about 35 bushels to the acre. When the crop was being cut the straw foretold a much heavier crop, but it was found that the heads were not properly filled out and many grains were missing.

From nearly all parts of the county complaints are being received as to the quality of the oats. Many of the grains are light and chaffy, being improperly developed and of little value commercially. A great amount of oats has already been placed on the markets and the elevators are daily crowded with farmers unloading their grain. Indications are that the present price will continue for a time at least.

BACK TO LIFE AFTER 30 YEARS

BROTHER THOUGHT HIM DEAD

After Being Tossed About on Life's Checker Board, Tooley Now Has Mining Stock.

If you had dropped into Milroy or that vicinity and inquired for old Jack Tooley, they would have told you that he was dead; dead some thirty odd years. He was a member of the sixteenth regiment and served with the Rush county boys in blue in Company E. Soon after the war Jack left these parts and word came back that he had died in Missouri. He has a brother, John Tooley, living on a farm near Milroy, who has mourned him dead all these years.

Like a grim spectre from the grave and the great beyond, Jack Tooley came to Rushville this morning. He is not the sprightly young man of powerful physique that left years ago, but is a grizzled haired and bearded old veteran, whose sands of time are fast ebbing away. But in spirit he is the same old Jack, just as young and bouyant as ever.

"Dead, eh!" he exclaimed when a comrade greeted him on the streets this mornin, "why I'm the livest old corpse you ever saw."

Tooley has been tossed about on life's checker board since he quit these parts and recounts many interesting tales. For many years he made his way as a professional gambler and was one of the boys during the steamboat heydays on the old Mississippi river. In the past few years he has settled down, quit drinking and gambling and with a little stake he managed to round up purchased some mining properties that bring him a nice income. He expects to meet his brother here today.

With Good Weather Thousands Thronged to the Fair Grounds Today.

GOOD RACES WERE PULLED OFF

Ladies Driving Contest Tomorrow—Hotly Contested Pace and Trot Yesterday.

A crowd which surpassed all previous records for Wednesday crowds was on the fair grounds yesterday and enjoyed the race program and numerous other events which were on the program. The ticket sale at the railroad gate yesterday was larger than it has been in many years phevious, and the I. & C. hauled about the same number of people, which they usually have on the second day of the fair.

The morning was taken up with the show of stock on the race track in front of the grand stand. The directors of the fair say that the number and class of the stock entered this year is up to the standard of the rest of the fair. The most interesting of the exhibits will take place tomorrow when the light harness horses will be shown. This class includes the best turn-out driven by a woman and also a hitching contest in which women race with time in hitching a horse to a buggy. These events always attract many entries and are generally attended by large crowds.

The race program today included a 2:17 pace, a 2:19 trot and a road trot. Thursday's races always prove to be the best and today was no exception. The pace and the trot was closely contested and good time was made in the heats.

The race program yesterday consisted of a 2:25 pace and a 2:35 trot, both of which were closely contested. In the trot, second money was more hotly fought for than first money. Both races were won by local men, Horrie Brooks taking first money in the pace with Lady J, and George Weeks winning first money in the trot with William Offutt's black mare, Arleigh O.

In the pace Lady J won three straight heats, but the Duke of Wellington, owned by John Tully of near Milroy, was a close second in the last two heats, Lady J just barely nosing him out. He won first money over Lady J at Greensburg last week. The time in all of the heats of the pace was good, the second in 2:17¼ being the best.

William Offutt's black mare, driven by George Weeks was the winner of the trot, taking the first second and fourth heats. She acted like the fastest horse in the bunch and came down the stretch in the heats which she won clearly outdistancing the other contestants. The fight for second money between Jerome, driven by Bruce Graham of this city, and Martin C, a Greensburg horse, was the

$40 DUKE WAS A RACE HORSE FIND

Duke of Wellington Who Won Second Money in Pace Yesterday and First Last Week.

BOUGHT FOR FORTY DOLLARS

By John Tully of Near Milroy a Year Ago to Work on the Farm.

It seems that it is not the price of a horse that counts, but it is the quality and its ability to make time. There have been many "finds" in the race horse business, but the history of the Duke of Wellington, who won second money in the 2:25 pace at the fair yesterday is the best yet.

He is a long, lank, lean, ugly colt, but he has been able to get in the money both times he has started this year and that is all that is expected of any horse. In the last two heats of the pace he was a strong contender for first position and pushed Lady J, driven by Horrie Brooks to the finish.

The Duke is owned by John Tulley of near Milroy and was driven yesterday by Kelly Smith, who is a brother-in-law of Tully. The best part of the story is that Tully bought the big awkward colt a year ago for forty dollars and he is now out winning money on the track.

One year ago last spring Tully wanted a cheap horse to work on the farm and he picked up the "Duke" for the small sum and worked him all spring. He was lame when they purchased him, but he soon got alright and could do a great deal of work.

During the summer they drove him on the road and found that he could pass most of the other horses. So he was trained some last fall and again this spring by young Smith. Smith had never worked any horses before but he seemed to get along admirably with this one and it was decided that he should start him in a race.

So the "Duke" was duly entered in the pace at Greensburg last week and won first money at his initial performance. He beat Lady J there who won first money here yesterday. Mr. Tully is very well satisfied with his find and expects to keep on racing him as long as he will win his "bread."

Yesterday was young Smith's second race and he handled the reins like a veteran. He drove with all the accuracy and care of a man who had been born and raised on the track.

SAYS DAUGHTER MISTREATED HER

Mrs. Sarah Harlan, 85, Brings Suit Against Annie E. Rogers to Set Aside Deed.

GRANDCHILDREN WERE SPIES

And Listened to Conversation With Relatives—Aged Woman Deprived of Her Smoking Tobacco.

Alleging that her daughter, Annie E. Rogers, took undue advantage of her illiteracy and ignorance of legal matters, Mrs. Sarah Harlan, through her attorneys, Douglas Morris and Samuel Trabue, has brought suit to set aside a deed for 127 acres of land in Anderson township. She says in her complaint that at the time of the making of the deed certain conditions were made under which the transaction should become invalid and the land revert to the Mrs. Harlan. The deed was made in 1899, and Mrs. Harlan is now 85 years old.

The principal contingent on the making of the deed for the land was that the daughter should care and provide for her mother until her death. This, the mother now says the daughter did not do and that she treated her in an unpleasant manner to say the least.

For instance the complaint says that although the daughter according to the agreement was to keep the mother in clothing, Mrs. Rogers paid only $4 for her mother's clothing in ten years. The plaintiff further avers that her daughter refused to allow her to see the other children. She even says that Mrs. Rogers sent her own children to watch the aged woman and hear what she was saying to neighbors and to other relatives. Mrs. Harlan declares that her grandchildren accused her of stealing and committing other misdemeanors. all of which she says the mother permitted without even reprimanding them.

Another thing to which the plaintiff objects is the fact that at thet ime the deed was made she was a habitual user of tobacco and that since the deed was made, so she says, the daughter has refused to provide her with smoking tobacco and that she has been foced to work for money to buy tobacco.

The complaint says that the plaintiff left the old home place August 20, 1908, in order to spend the remainder of her days in peace and quietude.

She now asks the court to set aside the deed on the ground that the conditions of the agreement have been violated by the defendant that there was a valid mortgage on the land for $2600 at the time of the transfer and that there was no money consideration.

SHOULD HAVE COME HERE.

Dr. Barnum of Manilla came to this city a few days ago and purchased a fine horse, says the Shelbyville Republican. The animal was taken home where the physician brought in all of the neighbors to see it. But not so when he went to hitch it up for it cut all kinds of capers and the doctor had to hire a man to drive it.
